Matt Arnold

Chairman of the Board,
Global Head, Impact Finance and Markets,
The Nature Conservancy

Location

Arlington, Virginia

Areas of Expertise

Economic development, impact finance

Matthew Arnold is Global Head, Impact Finance and Markets at The Nature Conservancy (TNC). Matthew oversees TNC's NatureVest, Corporate Engagement, and Carbon Markets Teams, collectively working to deliver impactful conservation outcomes to achieve TNC's 2030 goals.

Prior to joining TNC in fall 2021, Matthew was Head of Impact and Sustainable Finance at JPMorgan Chase where he led teams making principal investments in affordable housing, small business, and workforce development while advising JPMorgan and its clients on ESG and sustainability strategy. Matthew was instrumental in building JPMorgan's Sustainability commitment of $200 billion in SDG finance, and operational carbon neutrality.

Matt founded Sustainable Finance Ltd. (acquired by PwC), where he advised major banks on their sustainability strategy and contributed to the establishment of the Equator Principles, the premier bank standard on environment and human rights. He also served as Program Director and Chief Operating Officer for the World Resources Institute, where he established the organization's platform to engage the business community on environmental stewardship and launched the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment, Global Forest Watch and several other significant initiatives focused on ecosystem health and climate.

Previously Matt served as a trustee of TNC's New York Chapter.

Jennifer Morris

Chief Executive Officer, The Nature Conservancy

Location

Arlington, Virginia

Areas of Expertise

Global conservation leadership, conservation finance, economic development, enterprise entrepreneurship

Jennifer Morris serves as Chief Executive Officer of The Nature Conservancy, having joined the organization in May 2020 in this role. For the past 25 years, Jennifer has dedicated her life to protecting the environment for people and nature. She brings decades of global leadership, proven management skills, and a passion for conservation to the organization and its ambitious mission—conserving the lands and waters on which all life depends.

Prior to joining TNC, Jennifer was President at Conservation International (CI), where she oversaw all programs across 29 countries and more than 600 million hectares of protected land. She developed some of CI's most enduring programs, partnerships, and innovative strategies using business development as a tool to protect nature for the well-being of humanity. She led more than 1,000 staff comprising scientists, policy experts and passionate conservation professionals to implement cutting-edge initiatives and work with more than 2,000 diverse partners, from indigenous communities to multinational corporations.

Before her role as president at CI, Jennifer was the Chief Operating Officer and oversaw significant growth in budget and staff. At CI she worked on the conservation enterprise team, oversaw the Global Conservation Fund, and managed the Verde Ventures program, whose business partners employ nearly 60,000 local people in 14 countries with half a million hectares of important lands protected or restored. Jennifer led Conservation International's Center for Environmental Leadership and Business, which partners with corporations to amplify conservation and increase sustainability throughout supply chains.

David M. Rice

Founder, New Home Star

Location

Windermere, Florida

Areas of Expertise

Home building, sales, marketing

David Rice is the founder of New Home Star, a leading sales management firm that partners with some of the largest home builders in the U.S. and Canada. Since the firm's inception in 2008, New Home Star has disrupted the industry by redefining the way new homes are sold with an award-winning approach, becoming the largest private seller of new homes in the nation. Rice is a home building expert, sales and marketing authority and highly acclaimed entrepreneur.

Prior to New Home Star, David spent nearly a decade with Pulte Homes. There, he set the state record for the most new homes sold in Michigan in a single year. He went on to become the youngest vice president in a Fortune 150 home building company with more than 14,000 employees. Rice ultimately climbed to the position of senior vice president of sales, which enabled him to have oversight on training across the nation. Today, New Home Stars spans 3,000 miles and is on target to sell nearly $3 billion in new residential construction in 2021.

The organization has been honored several times among the Best Places to Work by Glassdoor, Crain's Business Chicago and was ranked two consecutive years in the 360 Award by Entrepreneur Magazine. David has also received several personal accolades and was named a Top CEO in 2018 by Glassdoor and recently was an Entrepreneur of The Year® 2021 Award finalist — the only finalist representing the residential construction sector for the region.

Ian McIntosh

Former Chief Executive of Netherlands-based Louis Dreyfus Co

Location

London, England

Areas of Expertise

Agricultural commodities, commodity supply chains, innovative finance, investment management

Ian McIntosh retired from his role as chief executive of Netherlands-based Louis Dreyfus Co. (LDC) Holdings BV in September 2020, he has been an invaluable advisor to TNC, with an emphasis on TNC's global agriculture work.

Based on his experiences at the helm of one of world's 'Big Four' commodity traders, Ian's insights contribute in particular to TNC's efforts to reduce deforestation, habitat conversion and land degradation across global food systems, as well as informing its work to expand the role played by innovative financial mechanisms in driving progress against these and other pressing conservation priorities.

A British national, Ian led LDC as group CEO from September 2018 through October 2020, culminating a 34-year career in global soft commodity markets. Ian joined the Louis Dreyfus Group in 1986 as a grain trader in London. Having led the UK grains desk from 1989 to 1991, he moved to Paris to trade global feed grains, and then to Melbourne to lead LDC's Australasian grains and oilseeds activities. Returning to London in 1993 as a sugar trader, Ian was later appointed global head of LDC's sugar activities. Between 1999 and 2007, he also managed LDC's global coffee, cocoa, rice, ethanol and grains businesses and was appointed CEO of EMEA region in 2007. In 2008, Ian left LDC to set up Edesia Asset Management as part of the Louis Dreyfus Group, serving as CEO and Chief Investment Officer of one of the largest commodity-focused hedge funds until its closure in 2018. Ian returned to LDC as chief strategy officer in 2018 and was appointed group CEO in September 2018.

Kent Thiry

TNC Global Board Member and
Former Chairman and CEO, DaVita

Location

Denver, Colorado

Areas of Expertise

Corporate and organizational culture, policy, strategic planning

Kent Thiry was CEO of DaVita from 1999 to 2019, a Fortune 250 company with 70,000 teammates across 12 countries. He stepped down as Executive Chair in June 2020. During this time, DaVita grew revenues from approximately $1 billion to $11 billion; emerged as the leading clinical innovator in the kidney care community, and a leader in clinical outcomes generally; and grew equity market value from approximately $150 million to $10 billion. DaVita has been the subject of leadership and culture case studies written by both Harvard and Stanford. Kent is regularly invited to speak on these subjects at top universities, companies, and not-for-profit leadership groups. Kent made a public pledge in 2015 that DaVita would be one of the first Fortune 500 companies to have a majority diverse board. They fulfilled that pledge in 2016.

Kent is significantly involved in the national US Democracy Renewal Movement and has successfully led 5 major statewide ballot initiatives in Colorado in the last 6 years. Examples include redistricting reform, open primaries, and fiscal reform. Each involved unusually broad “tri-partisan” coalitions (meaning both parties and independents).

Kent serves on the global board of The Nature Conservancy. He also founded and chairs Colorado Thrives, a group consisting primarily of large Colorado company CEOs, which is focused on advancing economic mobility and the general wellbeing of Colorado and all its citizens. He is also a founding board member of Endeavor Colorado, an international entrepreneur network.

He is also the Founder and Chairman of AdvanceEDU, an innovative college focused on providing job competency and extensive support services to low-income students. Kent was Founding Chair of the Colorado Gap Fund and Fundraising Chair for the Climber Fund; together these two funds have raised over $50 million to help small businesses (owned by women, people of color, veterans and rural citizens) survive Covid.

Prior board seats include the Harvard Business School Advisory Board, Oxford Health Plan and Varian. He is an advisor/coach for multiple CEOs. He also serves as an advisor for KKR, Partners Group, and Techstars. He sits on the board of SonderMind. Earlier in his career, he was Partner at Bain & Company.

Education and Designations:

- BA in Political Science, Stanford University (elected to Phi Beta Kappa)
- MBA, Harvard Business School (elected to the Century Club)

IFM ADVISORY BOARD

Jason Haggins

Executive Director and Board Member of Sall Family Foundation

Location

New York, New York

Areas of Expertise

Philanthropy, finance, and business

Jason Haggins is Executive Director and board member of Sall Family Foundation (SFF). SFF supports transformative change at the nexus between environment, public health, and community resiliency. The foundation's work is rooted in the belief that the people in local communities are the ones who should drive the decisions that affect their everyday lives, ultimately enabling them to generate locally governed and sustainable solutions that benefit themselves, their communities and the environment. SFF backs leaders and organizations closest to the big challenges surrounding the environment, public health, and poverty with the goal of empowering them to experiment, learn, and evolve as the planet and realities around them change. A key pillar of SFF's approach includes intentionally funding both locally-led organizations and larger non-profits, to encourage knowledge sharing, collaboration and ensure community-driven approaches leverage collective wisdom, scientific evidence, and scale efficiencies.

Reflecting on his passion for community conservation and global environmental issues, Jason serves on multiple nonprofit and for-profit boards and advisory councils.

Prior to joining SFF, Jason was a Senior Director with Alvarez & Marsal, where he advised clients on corporate bankruptcy restructurings and conducted forensic accounting investigations.
